GROWN IN SUNNY SOUTHERN ONTARIO

Building An Industry

All indications point to the probability that this summer will see a marked increase in traffic on the highways and probably on some of the more important municipal roads in Western Canada.

The origin of this increased traffic will be partly local due to improved crop conditions in many parts of the prairie provinces last year, coupled with the prospect of better prices for wheat and other grains should the war continue and the Allies be able to keep the overseas open for their needed supplies of foodstuffs, munitions and other requisitions for warfare.

The other factor making for this prospective increase in traffic on Western Canadian highways this summer is the probability of a substantially augmented number of visitors from the United States on holiday bent, and in all likelihood this source will provide for the major increase.

In addition to the American tourists who would have spent their vacation in this country in the ordinary course of events, Canada is likely to play host to a large number of the more wealthy residents of the United States who are accustomed to holidaying in Europe and whose summer playgrounds are cut off by the war. Their vacation ground is now practically confined to this continent. Some, no doubt, will go to Mexico or the West Indies, but, if the war spreads, the majority will feel safer in Central and Western Canada than anywhere else, except in their own country.

If this premise is sound, many new faces from south of the international border will be seen in Western Canada, and the present time appears to afford an excellent opportunity to the Western Canadians to cement the friendship which exists between the two countries and to lay the foundations for an enhanced tourist trade for future years.

Solidify Friendship

If this traffic is to be encouraged, not only for this but in future years, it is essential that everything possible be done to ensure the comfort and convenience of those who make Western Canada their holiday playground, and every possible means should be adopted to dispel the erroneous notion which has been circulated south of the border that wartime means danger from submarines and mines, higher food prices, irksome restrictions at ports of entry and within the country, such as for instance as prohibition of curtailment of the use of cameras and so on. Fortunately, the federal government has already announced that none of these risks and impediments exist or will exist, but a bare announcement is not sufficient. The information must be conveyed to the potential visitor and every Western Canadian who has friends in the United States should do his part in seeing that this information is as widely circulated as possible in the neighboring country.

If this traffic is to be built on a solid foundation now, when the opportunity is available and if good will is to be created and cemented, it is essential that the American visitor to Western Canada this summer secure the full face value of his dollar while purchasing commodities and buying services on his vacation trip. Every Canadian who fails to give the incoming tourist the full premium which the United States dollar enjoys under international exchange rates is doing a disservice to his own country and is adopting a short sighted policy.

In view of the future, as well as the immediate present, importance of the tourist industry special efforts should be made this summer to maintain the highways and major municipal roads of the country in as high a state of efficiency as finances will permit. While war expenditures, of course, have the right of way, as much as possible should be done to condition the roads, if the war is to make the most of the advantages of building up this major industry which the present situation affords. This entails the necessity of seeing to it that every dollar spent on road construction or road maintenance does a full dollar's worth of work.

Courtesy Is Important

Apart from these essentials to the promotion of this growing industry courtesy is not the least important consideration if we are to secure and retain the goodwill of the customers. This implies, not only courtesy in the conduct of transactions with the country's guests, which is naturally to be expected, but also courtesy on the road. The rules of the road should be strictly complied with for they, themselves are based on the spirit of courtesy, and commonsense.

The driver who hogs more than his share of the road, who cuts in front of others, who passes others on hills and curves at excessive speeds, violates the laws of courtesy and commonsense and is doing his share to drive away a flourishing trade as well as being a danger to himself and his own countrymen.

A study of highway accidents in the United States by the Travellers' Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn., reveals the truth of the statement that virtually all highway accidents are due to the negligence of those involved. Of the accidents studied it was found that the weather was clear in 86.7 per cent of the cases and the pavement dry in 79.6 per cent. Of the drivers involved 95.7 per cent. had more than a year's experience and 93.4 per cent. were men. Ninety three per cent. of the cars were in good condition and 84.5 per cent. were driving on straight open stretches when tragedy struck. The figures dispose of practically all the usual alibis for accident causes and leave the driver culpable.

Right Man For Job

In a despatch from London appearing in the Christian Science Monitor, Mallory Browne says few informed people in England to-day question that Mr. Winston Churchill is the right man to have on the bridge in war time. He is credited with being fertile in ideas and full of initiative as well as with unquestioned success in speeding up the building of new fighting ships.

Safety Always Waiting

Ready To Ride If Careless Driver Would Be Willing

Most people who drive cars are fond of saying in their own screamingly funny way that they always like to keep one foot on the ground—meaning to say that they won't fly. Yet all the commercial flying services in United States carrying thousands of passengers over millions of miles, went through an entire year without a single loss of life.

Flying people made a business and science of safety. Motorists have made neither one yet, although automobile engineers have given them very safety device it is possible to cram aboard a four-wheeled chassis. Safety is still a hitch-hiker with us, thumb out, beckoning a ride. When are motorists going to get wise to themselves and take him aboard?—Vancouver Sun.

Open Leave Club Again

Australian Serving In Last War Was First To Register

The moving spirit of the "Leave Club," as during the first Great War, is Lady Guggisberg—wife of Sir Gordon Guggisberg, who was Governor and commander-in-chief of the Gold Coast. Lady Guggisberg, formerly a well-known actress, founder of innumerable women's societies during the last war, will be remembered among the Canadian returned men as Miss Decima Moore. She is still Miss Moore to the troops and to-day she welcomes to the Leave Club the son of many a soldier who stayed there 23 years ago.

"I was quite touched when we opened to discover that the first soldier to register was an Australian whom we had during the last war," said Lady Guggisberg. "Of course the Canadians have not begun to come yet except a few members of the R.A.F., but this will be one of their homes in France when and for as long as they wish to use it." She smiled a little and added, "You can tell their mothers that we'll look after them."

Inside the door and along the long wide staircase—the atmosphere is entirely British. Flags and signs in English; here a warning: "A lovely girl—an idle word—a comrade lost—Hitler served." Soft English voices, the smell of good tobacco and a boyish voice humming, "Odette, you bet, you're gonna be mine!"

At little tables in the writing room they sit writing letters home or with heads together poring over the plan of Paris. In another part of the room several boys with coats off and sleeves rolled up are sorting decorations to hang up for the Saturday night dance. Girls from English, Canadian and other "colonies" of Paris are invited. Each girl must wear a nurse's white smock before she is admitted to the floor of the magnificent ballroom.

"In this way we have solved the problem of clothes and it puts the boys completely at their ease," said Lady Guggisberg who sets the example herself. Soldier or officer, finding the girls all on the same footing, there is no sign of riches or poverty and this saves much embarrassment while it contributes to the good time."

Hitler Declaration

Would Give Britain The World If He Could Have Europe

Harold Nicholson, member of parliament, told this story of Adolf Hitler in a radio broadcast from London.

"Hitler once told a friend of mine his greatest desire was to bare his soul in a high conversation with an Englishman."

"My friend asked, 'What would you say?'"

"Hitler extended his arms toward the Berchtesgaden mountains and replied, 'I would say to him, give me Europe and I'll give him the rest of the world.'"

"My friend said, 'But Britain would simply loathe being given the rest of the world. They have enough trouble of their own.'"

"Hitler replied, angrily, 'I should force them to take it.'"

Large Merchant Fleet

One of the world's greatest fleets of merchant vessels—more than 4,000 Norwegian and Danish ships aggregating approximately 6,000,000 gross tons—was driven out of active commerce when war suddenly shifted to Scandinavia. This developed as orders went out to the vessels to seek safety in neutral harbors the world over.

One Of Oldest Games

Marbles Played By Egyptians And Chinese Many Centuries Ago

"We thought the game of marbles was as extinct as the dodo. Least-ways we have not seen schoolboys 'knuckling down' on the sidewalks for many a year. Yet in nearby Michigan it seems to be flourishing. A Detroit newspaper is sponsoring a tournament and has zoned the entire State for preliminary rounds, leading to a grand championship some weeks later.

The game of marbles is one of the oldest in the world. It was played by the ancient Egyptians, the Chinese and the natives of India. Saxony used to be the world centre for the making of marbles. The marbles which were placed in the ring were made of baked red clay and the "knucklers" were made of agate or some other hard, smooth mineral. In our boyhood days, soda drink bottles had round glass pebbles for stoppers which were pushed in when one wanted to pour out the contents. Many a bottle was never returned because the boys of the household used to break them in order to extract the "glassies" to play marbles with. There is a little, old-fashioned English village where, about this time of the year, a "world's championship" marbles contest has been staged for many generations. For a number of years past the competitors have been old men, some up in the eighties.

Red Cross Sends Funds To Assist In Polish Relief

The following letter will be of interest to Polish readers all over Canada. It is one more instance of how the Red Cross can and does help to do things in the war-ridden countries which can be done by no other agency.

Mr. Victor Sifton, president, Manitoba Branch, Canadian Red Cross, Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Dear Mr. Sifton: We are herewith enclosing a cheque for six hundred dollars ($600.00), which amount was mailed to us from Montreal, with the instructions to transmit same to Mr. Jan Stanczyk, the minister of labor and social welfare in the Polish government at Angers, France.

Prevent Wool Shrinkage

Australia Has Found New Method That Has Proven Successful

A new method of making wool unshrinkable has been discovered at the McMaster Laboratory in New South Wales and has already been proved successful in large scale tests.

A statement by the Australian wool board said that the wool can be put under the new process for about six cents per pound. Its other advantages are the simplicity of the process, low initial cost for the necessary plant and the absence of any obnoxious odors or fumes.

The statement said it is believed that the processes will widen considerably the market for wool, which has suffered from the public's fear of shrinkage. It added that two other methods of making wool unshrinkable have been evolved in England, but the Australian process promises to be the most effective.

Canada Sells Most Wheat

Canada is still selling more wheat than any other country in the world, with 37 per cent. of the total movement into international trade. Australia and the United States are slipping while the Danube Basin is merely holding its own. Our backlog of wheat reserves may play as important a part in this war as it did in the last.

EXTEND CBC OVERSEAS SERVICE

Extension of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's overseas service with the Canadian Active Service Force—which has been operative ever since the First Canadian Division left for England—is now announced. Jerry Arthur and Gerry Wilmot, announcers on the CBC Montreal staff, and A. E. Allier, engineer, also of the Montreal staff, are joining CBC's Overseas Unit, which has been carrying Canadian broadcasts to the troops of the C. A. S. F., and also presenting the weekly "Monday evening programme" with the troops in England, which is broadcast direct from the Old Country to Canada.

This extension of the overseas service follows the visit to England and France of E. L. Bushnell, CBC Supervisor of Programmes, who has been secured the complete co-operation of the British Broadcasting Corporation and the French National Broadcasting System.

CBC's Overseas Unit will be comprised of a staff of five, including R. T. Bowman, who went to England with the First Division. It will contribute three or four programmes each week to the BBC schedule direct from Canada, with the particular object of serving the Canadian forces. A mobile unit will also be established in England which will provide three programmes a week for Canadian listeners.

Excerpts From Funeral Service of Mr. W. Isbister

The following are excerpts from the funeral ceremony conducted by Rev. Frank Harkback, for Mr. W. Isbister.

These were forwarded earlier but failed to reach us.

He sees when their footsteps falter
When their hearts grow weak and faint;
He marks when their strength is failing,
Listens to each complaint;
He bids them rest for a season,
For the pathway has grown too steep;
And folded in fair green pastures,
He gives his loved ones sleep.

Our friend and brother Mr. Isbister has pierced to that final mystery of suffering and death and has reaped that reward which Christ has promised to all who love him.

His life was wrought out in the hard places of the earth. He knew hard toil that often was left unwarded. He faced courageously all the struggles that has made the name of the pioneer in this great country so unmistakably great and altogether lovely. He was a Christian gentleman, who manifested in his own life the will to work, the will to be friendly and the will to live a good life. It is my prayer that his spirit of service, love and purity, will become so inscribed in us this day that we will hold high in our lives the things for which he lived.

Mr. Isbister suffered for years from a disease that gradually reaped its toll of strength from his vigorous body. Finally the Great Physician laid his hand upon him and gave him life.

I thank him to find some healing elixir
For him I loved; he found that shore,
That city whose inhabitants
Are sick and sorrowful no more.

Such sweet communion had been ours,
I prayed that it might never end,
My prayer is more than answered; now
I have an angel for a friend.

The funeral was largely attended by Mr. Isbister's oldest and dearest friends who were early residents of Chinook, six of whom acted as pallbearers.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful.

The remains were laid to rest in Burnsland Cemetery.

British War Aims

Statements By Ministers

THE PRIME MINISTER

"The people of France and the people of Great Britain are alike determined not only to honor to the full their obligations to Poland, but also to put an end, once for all, to the intolerable strain of living under the perpetual threat of Nazi aggression."

Our French Allies are, like ourselves, a peace-loving people, but they are no less convinced than are we that there can be no peace until the menace of Hitlerism has been finally removed."

13 September, 1939, in the House of Commons

Our general purpose in this struggle is well known. It is to redeem Europe from the perpetual and recurring fear of German aggression, and enable the peoples of Europe to preserve their independence and their liberties."

20 September, 1939, in the House of Commons.

The aims of His Majesty's Government have always included the formation of a stable international system, having as its object the prevention of war and the just settlements of international disputes by pacific means."

21 September, 1939, in the House of Commons.

"Never have our people been more united or more determined. They are resolved and the simple fact cannot be too often stressed to rid them selves once for all of the perpetual threat of German aggression of which Poland is only the latest instance."

Dr. Patton of Cereal left for Montreal where he will take a three month's post-graduate course. During his absence, Dr. Querk will be in charge.

26 September, 1939, in the House of Commons.

"Nobody desires the war to continue for an unnecessary day but the overwhelming mass of opinion in this country, and I am satisfied also in France, is determined to secure that the rule of violence shall cease and that the words of Governments, once pledged, must be kept."

3 October, 1939, in the House of Commons.

"It is no part of our policy to exclude from her rightful place in Europe a Germany which will live in amity and confidence for other nations. On the contrary, we believe that no effective remedy can be found for the world's ills that does not take account of the just desires and needs of all countries and whenever the time may come to draw the lines of a new peace settlement, His Majesty's Government would feel that the future would hold little hope unless such a settlement could be reached through the method of negotiation and agreement."

"A week no material advantage or ourselves; we desire nothing from the German people which should offend their self respect. We are not aiming only at victory but rather looking beyond it to the laying of a foundation of a better international system which will mean that war is not to be the inevitable lot of every succeeding generation."

"The peace which we are determined to secure, however, must be a real and settled peace, not an uneasy truce interrupted by constant alarms and repeated threats."

ENGLAND
IN THE 15th CENTURY

Two hundred years earlier, England established the art of brewing commercially. It was at this time the water of Burton on the Trent began to be famous. The monks were first to discover the secrets of this famous water. There is a document, dated 1495, in which it is stated that Mailla, daughter of Nicolas de Theben, had received to the Abbot of Burton certain tenements. In return she was granted daily for life, two loaves, two gallons of BEER and a penny, besides seven gallons of BEER for the men.

---AND TODAY

More and more people are learning anew about how BEER contributes to better living. It offers companionship when you're alone... fellowship when among friends and an economical, ensurable flourish to the hospitality that graces your home.
